INTERNATIONAL TREBBIA AWARDS

INTERNATIONAL TREBBIA AWARDS

2000–2022

Motto:

To believe in God, pay taxes, not deceive business partners, and not slander the successful, but rather admire and follow their lead.

Miro Smolák

“Dear Bob, I am sorry I am not there with you today, so the least I can do is send you my long-distance congratulations on receiving a European Trebbia Award. I think the award is in the very best hands, because you have been able to connect artistic engagement with civic co-responsibility for this world.” (Václav Havel to Bob Geldof)

Václav Havel, President of the Czech Republic, 1993–2003

“...Allow me to congratulate the Trebbia Award laureates... I am pleased that the organisers also remembered those in need and used this evening to present a charity cheque to Paraple. I hope that the tradition of Trebbia gala benefit evenings will continue...”

Václav Klaus, President of the Czech Republic, 2003–2013

“...Allow me to congratulate the laureates of the 15th annual Trebbia Award. Over the course of these 15 years Trebbia has had over 80 laureates from 23 countries around the world. This proves that Trebbia is not just a meteor that burns bright and dies out because it could not gain public favour. The Trebbia is a fixed star in our skies...”

Miloš Zeman, President of the Czech Republic, 2013–2023

“... Over the centuries, the Italian River Trebbia, which lent its name to these awards, has calmly flowed and borne witness to many important, as well as seemingly ordinary, events and human stories. Everyone receiving an award today offers clear proof that the dissemination and transfer of cultural and spiritual wealth from one generation to the next cannot be halted by either political or national borders or by the differences in the languages we speak.”

Daniel Herman, Minister of Culture of the Czech Republic, 2014–2017

“... The Trebbia Award celebrates artists, sponsors and entrepreneurs and tells us a human story through art. We will remember the names of Leonardo and Michelangelo, but we will not remember names of the Venetian doge, a Milanese duke or pope. Czechs and Slovaks will remember the revolution and president Havel, and the world will remember the great author of theatrical plays. Drama, dance, music, painting, theatre and all the arts. This is high culture and today we celebrate it...”

Sir Bob Geldof

“...My wish for you is that your gala evening be a great cultural benefit to everyone, and I send you my blessing for good culture that will lead us to our Saviour...”

Cardinal Dominik Duka OP

How was the International Trebbia Award created?

In 1143, the Premonstratensian Order founded the Strahov Monastery on Hradčany hill in Prague.

In 1602-1612, the Premonstratensians and Emperor Rudolf II had a church built, on the monastery grounds, as an expression of gratitude for the fact that Prague was spared a plague epidemic. This church was dedicated to the French saint Roch, who at the turn of the 13th and 14th centuries helped wherever the plague raged. When Saint Roch himself fell ill, he left France, on foot across the Alps, to northern Italy and lived for many years in a hut on the banks of the Trebbia River. Here, according to legend, an angel visited him and cured him of his illness.

In 1993, the MIRO Gallery, originally founded in Berlin in 1987, moved to the Church of St. Roch, in Prague's Hradčany district, thanks to the selfless financial help of the Czech singer Karel Gott.

In 2000, the MIRO Gallery initiated the creation of an international award named after the Italian river Trebbia. This award was created as a way of thanking entrepreneurs, patrons and artists across all artistic genres.

In 2007, the MIRO Gallery established the Trebbia Foundation, which has been organising the International Trebbia Awards since its inception.

For 21 years, the Trebbia Gala has been one of the most prestigious international cultural events in the Czech and Slovak Republics. The Trebbia Awards are presented annually, to laureates from many countries around the world, in a live broadcast on both Czech and Slovak Television, and also on the Trebbia Foundation YouTube channel, (live from 20:00 CET). This is broadcast, simultaneously in English translation to the whole world. The replay can be watched a week later on Noe TV in the Czech and Slovak Republics.

The International Trebbia Award has the following four categories:

- 1) Trebbia Award for Creative Activities
- 2) Trebbia Award for Support of Culture and Arts
- 3) Trebbia Award for Contribution to the Dialogue of National Cultures
- 4) Trebbia Award for Lifetime Achievement

Each laureate receives a bronze Trebbia statuette and a diploma.

Between 2001-2022 the International Trebbia Awards was awarded to 118 laureates from 31 countries around the world: Australia, Austria, Bosnia and Herzegovina, Cambodia, China, the Czech Republic, France, Germany, Hungary, India, Ireland, Israel, Italy, Japan, Kenya, Kuwait, Laos, Mexico, Monaco, Mongolia, Poland, Russian Federation, Slovakia, Spain, Switzerland, Tajikistan, Turkey, Ukraine, United Kingdom, USA, and Venezuela.

gala evening

Trebbia is a European award born in the Prague Church of St. Roch, as the natural historical intersection of nearly a thousand years of spiritual development at this site, and the positive relationship between patrons and the creators of cultural values. The French saint, today worshiped under the name of St. Roch, lived in the 14th century. At the age of 12, he was orphaned. Some time later he set out for Italy, crossing the Alps. He helped everyone and everywhere that the plague epidemic had struck. In the end, he himself fell ill with the plague. In order not to be a burden to anyone, he withdrew to a forest hut, on the bank of one of the most beautiful Italian rivers, the Trebbia. According to legend, he received daily visits from an angel, to give him encouragement. The years of quiet contemplation, over the waves of the river, cured him. He died in 1327. His remains were deposited in the San Rocco church in Venice. St. Vitus Cathedral in Prague also lodges some of the saint's remains. As an act of thanksgiving for the plague epidemic having evaded Prague, Emperor Rudolf II initiated the building of a church on the Strahov Monastery grounds in 1599. The church, built with his financial assistance, and with the support of the Strahov Abbot, Jan Lohel, in 1602-1612, was dedicated to St. Roch. Since 1994, this unique space has accommodated the international MIRO Gallery, established in Berlin in 1987. As an expression of its thanks, to entrepreneurs, patrons, and artists, the Gallery established a European award in 2000, and named it after the River Trebbia.

Trebbia Gala Benefit Evening at State Opera Prague

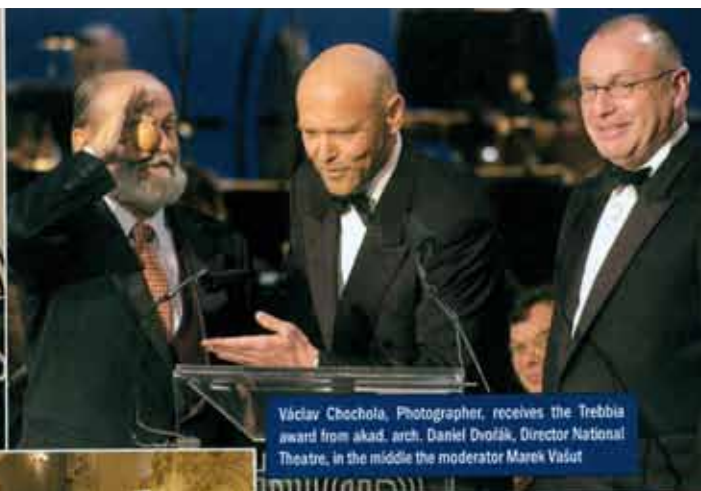

What is Trebbia?

A French saint, known to us today as Saint Roch, lived in the 14th century. He lost his parents in the age of 12. After some time he moved over the Alps to Italy. He helped everybody and everywhere, where the plague epidemic took over. Eventually, he got infected himself, and in order not to disturb anybody he moved to a wooden shelter on the banks of one of the prettiest Italian rivers - the Trebbia. Years of quiet contemplation in presence of its waves finally healed him. He died in 1327. Some of his remains are also buried in St. Vitus cathedral in Prague. In 1602 - 1612 Rudolf II, the emperor, built a chapel at the Strahov monastery, and named it after St. Roch. Since 1994, Gallery Miro has resided at this unique site. The Gallery was founded in Berlin in 1987. Since 2003, Gallery Miro has been awarding personalities and institutions the award for their support of arts and for their creative activities. The award was named after the river Trebbia.

Two laureates receive bronze sculptures Trebbia and diplomas for their support of arts. One laureate receives a bronze sculpture Trebbia, diploma and CZK 100,000 for their creative activities. The bronze sculpture was created by Amri Aminov, the artist of Tajikistan origin living in Paris.

Vážený pán predseda, ďakujem Vám za Vašu žiadosť z 22. apríla 2022 o prevzatie záštity ministra kultúry SR nad 20. ročníkom odovzdávania Medzinárodných cien Trebbia za podporu kultúry a umenia a za tvorivú činnosť, spolu s ministrom kultúry Českej republiky pánom Martinom Baxom.

Ceny Trebbia sú významným ocenením udeľovaným v oblasti umenia a kultúry. S radosťou konštatujem, že za obdobia svojej existencie si získali pevné miesto a prestížnu pozíciu medzi obdobnými oceneniami. Teší ma, že medzi doterajšími laureátmi sa nachádzajú aj viaceré osobnosti slovenskej kultúry.

Mená členov Medzinárodnej nomináčnej poroty Trebbia pre rok 2022 sú zárukou kvalitného výberu laureátov aj v tomto roku.

Je mi veľkým potešením prevziať záštitu nad jubilejným 20. ročníkom podujatia, ktorý sa bude konať 12. júna 2022 v Prahe.

Vážený pán predseda, prajem Vám a všetkým členom poroty úspešný výber laureátov a príjemný priebeh celého večera.

Vážený pán predsedu,

so záujmom som prijala Vašu informáciu o príprave slávnostného ceremoniálu 18. ročníka udeľovania Medzinárodných cien Trebbia, ktorý v dôstojných priestoroch Španielskej sály Pražského hradu v priamom prenose odvysielajú verejnoprávne televízie Českej republiky a Slovenskej republiky v spolupráci s Nadačným fondom Trebbia.

Szanowni Państwo,

zaproszenie na doroczną galę Trebbia Awards sprawiło mi prawdziwą przyjemność.
Serdecznie za nie dziękuję.

Miejsce, gdzie zrodziła się idea Nagrody - praskie Hradczany, jedno z największych dokonań architektury i sztuki europejskiej, po raz kolejny stały się inspiracją dla pięknej idei wspierającej kulturę.

Cele, jakie założyła sobie Państwa Fundacja są także i mnie bardzo bliskie, zaś osmioletnia już tradycja Nagrody i lista nią wyróżnionych wielkich osobowości świata kultury światowej, dobitnie świadczy o jej znakomitej randze.

Z prawdziwą satysfakcją wśród laureatów odznaczenia znalazłem także nazwisko twórcy urodzonego i wychowanego w Polsce - wielkiego architekta światowego formatu, Daniela Libeskinda.

Niestety, wcześniej podjęte zobowiązania uniemożliwiają mi świętowanie tego wyjątkowego wydarzenia wraz z Państwem.

Tym serdeczniej zatem życzę, by tegoroczna Gala wpisała się w znakomitą tradycję nagradzania najświetniejszych postaci współczesnego świata kultury.

Z wyrazami szacunku

The Office to Prince William and Prince Harry

Private and Confidential

15th November, 2007

Dear Dr Smolák,

Prince William has asked me to write and thank you for your letter of 9th November which was forwarded to our office by Rebecca Davies in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, in which you invite The Prince to attend the Trebbia Gala Benefit evening on 18th January 2008.

Prince William was extremely grateful for your invitation, and touched that you should have thought of asking him to attend the Trebbia Gala Benefit evening. Having given careful consideration to the possibilities, however, I very much regret that His Royal Highness reluctantly feels that he has to decline.

You may well be aware that in 2008 Prince William is due to serve on attachment to the Royal Navy and Royal Air Force and, at the time of the dinner, His Royal Highness will be committed to his RAF training.

Prince William regrets having to send this necessarily disappointing reply, but sends you and the Trebbia International Nomination Committee his very best wishes for a very enjoyable evening.

*Yours sincerely,
Thea Garwood*

vzhledem k tomu, že dnes večer bohužel nemohu být s Vámi ve Státní opeře, dovoluji mi, abych Vás všechny alespoň touto cestou pozdravil a pogratuloval laureátům ceny Trebbia pro rok 2004.
